COLUMBUS PERSPECTIVE: 2nd QUARTER 2014

1. (tie)
EMPLOYMENT/ECONOMY

DATE	GUEST	TOPIC	LENGTH
4/6/14	Former Ohio Governor Ted Strickland, now Center for American Progress Action Fund President.	He says he'll be actively working on issues such as raising the minimum wage, job creation, affordable education and tax fairness. He also says he thinks 2014 is likely to be a difficult year for Democrats nationally. But he says he also believes the Republican Party is in the last few years of relevancy if it doesn't change policies on issues such as marriage equality and immigration. He also expressed his support for Ed Fitzgerald in his run for governor against Republican John Kasich and said he believes "Obamacare" is here to stay and will prove to be a very successful program.	9:00
4/6/14	Political strategists Dale Butland and Terry Casey	They discuss various issues including whether Governor John Kasich is preparing to run for president, whether 2014 will be a tough election year for Democrats, whether college athletes should be paid, whether President Obama's unpopularity is hurting Democrats at the state level, whether a voter rights amendment will get on the ballot in Ohio, whether the Affordable Care Act has turned the corner following roll-out problems, and whether unemployment benefits will be extended by Congress.	7:00
4/6/14	Author of books on frugal living, Leah Ingram	She recommends that people use their income tax refund for household projects that save money (insulation, etc) or increase the value of the home.	5:00

4/20/14	Lieutenant Governor Mary Taylor	She says the Kasich Administration has improved Ohio's economy with 170,000 new jobs—9th best in the nation. She says JobsOhio is really just getting going and the administration is focused on business expansion in Ohio. She says if Democrats focus on the so-called "War on Women" won't work in Ohio because the governor has expanded Medicaid, helping low-income women and is providing state funding to rape crisis centers.	6:00
4/20/14	Ohio Policy Matters Research Director Zach Schiller	He talks about tax cuts and whether they work. He says a state income tax reduction of a few percentage points results in an extra $10-20 per year for many Ohioans, a little more than that for middle class Ohioans, and a few thousand dollars for the wealthy, but not enough for any group to get life-changing savings. But he says when taken together it equals a loss of revenue in the hundreds of millions of dollars for the state and if it isn't paid for properly with savings somewhere that makes sense it results in more of a burden for local governments and schools and other entities.	24:00
5/18/14	Columbus Dispatch reporter Jim Siegel	He discusses various political issues, including the mood of Democrats and Republicans about the 2014 statewide races, the money advantage that John Kasich has over Ed Fitzgerald in the governor's race, and about the Democrats' likely strategy to attack Kasich on his previous support of Senate Bill 5, which would have limited collective bargaining in Ohio until it was overturned by Ohio voters.	6:00

6/15/14	Ohio AFL-CIO President Tim Burga	He talks about his concerns over "Right-to-Work" efforts that have the support of some Ohio Republicans. It would allow workers to opt out of union membership and rules. Burga says Right-to-Work drives down wages and drives up workplace fatalities. He says Governor Kasich should clarify his position on the issue before the November election. He says outside fringe groups are fueling moves to implement right-to-work policies in states, same, he says, as those who tried to shoot down collective bargaining rights in Ohio previously.	7:00
6/15/14	Political strategists Dale Butland and Bob Clegg	They debate several political issues, including whether organized labor will help Ed Fitzgerald win the governorship, whether right-to-work will be passed by the state legislature, who is to blame for the long waiting lists for veterans at V. A. hospitals, whether the swap of Gitmo prisoners for Bowe Bergdahl was good or bad, and whether local governments are jacking up taxes because of Governor Kasich's tax policies.	5:00
6/22/14	Directions for Youth and Families C.E.O. Duane Casares	He talks about poverty and its stress factors	15:00

EDUCATION

DATE	GUEST	TOPIC	LENGTH
4/6/14	Former Ohio Governor Ted Strickland, now Center for American Progress Action Fund President.	He says he'll be actively working on issues such as raising the minimum wage, job creation, affordable education and tax fairness. He also says he thinks 2014 is likely to be a difficult year for Democrats nationally. But he says he also believes the Republican Party is in the last few years of relevancy if it doesn't change policies on issues such as marriage equality and immigration. He also expressed his support for Ed Fitzgerald in his run for governor against Republican John Kasich and said he believes "Obamacare" is here to stay and will prove to be a very successful program.	9:00

4/13/14	WBNS-TV Sports anchor and WBNS-FM host Beau Bishop	He talks about unionizing college football players. He says there is no question that many college football players "work" on their game 60 hours or more per week. He says it's an issue that will have to be settled for all colleges in a way that satisfies all situations, which will be difficult. He also talked about how football and basketball are, for the most part, the only sports generating revenue for colleges, but also the coaches make millions of dollars in salaries for those teams	7:00
4/13/14	Directions for Youth and Families C.E.O. Duane Casares	He talks about the Pennsylvania school stabbings and about the importance of seeing signs and reaching out to students or classmates or family and friends who are isolating themselves or being bullied, etc.	18:00
4/20/14	Democratic gubernatorial candidate Ed Fitzgerald and running mate Debora Neuhardt	They say they are not concerned about campaign funding—they say they'll have enough to get their message out. He says Governor Kasich is focused on providing tax cuts for the wealthy at the expense of the poor and reducing funding for public education. Neuhardt says the "war on women" isn't an abortion issue—while the right to choose is important she says women also make 23 cents on the dollar less than men.	6:00
4/27/14	State Representative Jay Hottinger	He talks about the mid-biennium budget work at the Statehouse. He says the bill helps veterans with education when they return from deployment, deals with CEOs who run underperforming charter schools and makes progress with primary, secondary and higher education issues. He says he doesn't like everything in the bill—he says a lot of things were thrown into it that shouldn't have been there such as a provision to cut local government funds by ten percent for any county that mails out absentee ballots to their residents (this was taken out before being voted on). Hottinger says he's not a fan of this mid-biennium budget process because it comes at a difficult time politically and puts pressure on lawmakers.	7:00

6/22/14	Julie Bray, a Gahanna 6th grader who, with two classmates, won a national science contest sponsored by the U. S. Army in Washington, DC (Ecybermission).	She talks about their project, designing an earthquake-proof structure for use as dwellings in Third World countries such as Haiti.	7:00

4/13/14	Columbus Dispatch reporter Joe Vardon	He discusses issues, including what happened with Columbus being turned down as a host for the 2016 Republican National Convention. He also talks about Governor John Kasich speaking in Las Vegas at the invitation of billionaire GOP donor Sheldon Adelson, about the mid-biennium budget signed by Governor Kasich, and about whether stances on gay marriage will be an issue in the governor's race between Kasich and Democrat Ed Fitzgerald.	5:00
4/13/14	Political strategists Dale Butland and Bob Clegg	They briefly discuss many issues including whether college athletes should be paid to play, whether the mid-biennium measure signed by Kasich was a way to sweeten the pot for local entities in advance of the election (money for zoos, etc), whether Columbus could successfully lure the 2016 Democratic National Convention, the U. S. Supreme Court's decision to eliminate political donation limits in certain situations, and whether "Obamacare" is a success.	5:00
4/20/14	Lieutenant Governor Mary Taylor	She says the Kasich Administration has improved Ohio's economy with 170,000 new jobs—9th best in the nation. She says JobsOhio is really just getting going and the administration is focused on business expansion in Ohio. He says Governor Kasich is focused on providing tax cuts for the wealthy at the expense of the poor and reducing funding for public education. Neuhardt says the "war on women" isn't an abortion issue—while the right to choose is important she says women also make 23 cents on the dollar less than men.	6:00

4/20/14	Brigadier General John Harris, commander of the Ohio Army National Guard	He says for the first time since 9/11/01 all the Ohio units are home with only a few individuals deployed overseas. He talked about the changes that have occurred with the Guard with its stepped-up role since drafting of soldiers for war ended.	14:00
4/20/14	Ohio Policy Matters Research Director Zach Schiller	He talks about tax cuts and whether they work. He says a state income tax reduction of a few percentage points results in an extra $10-20 per year for many Ohioans, a little more than that for middle class Ohioans, and a few thousand dollars for the wealthy, but not enough for any group to get life-changing savings. Hottinger says he's not a fan of this mid-biennium budget process because it comes at a difficult time politically and puts pressure on lawmakers.	7:00
4/27/14	Columbus Dispatch reporter Joe Vardon	He talks about the governor's race, in part about Governor Kasich's decision to expand Medicaid and the political impact that could have with Republicans.	5:00

4/27/14	Ohio Republican Party Political Director Katie Egan and ProgressOhio Executive Director Brian Rothenburg	They discuss political issues including Ohio House Republicans approving a measure to allow foreign-owned corporations with state government contracts to donate money to Ohio political candidates, Ohio legislators moving to define college athletes as not being employees, the measure proposed by Republicans and then withdrawn that would cut local funding for counties that mail out voter absentee ballots, whether Democrats might stay home in the next election due to lack of eagerness to vote, and whether U. S. Health and Human Services Secretary Kathleen Sebelius stepping down was because of the disastrous rollout of the Affordable Care Act website.	6:00
5/4/14	Attorney Carol Fey	She talks about the legal fight over gay marriage in Ohio. She says none of the courts are finding bans on gay marriage to be Constitutional and that eventually the acceptance of gay marriage will be the law of the land. She expects it to be decided by the U. S. Supreme Court after one of the federal appeals courts finds a state ban unconstitutional.	8:00
5/4/14	Political strategists Terry Casey and Dale Butland	They discuss various issues, including whether Governor John Kasich has more money than he needs to win re-election, whether Attorney General Mike DeWine should continue fighting to preserve a ban on gay marriage in Ohio, whether gun opponents will gain any leverage going forward, whether "Obamacare" will be a big issue in the November election, whether Ohio's economy is improving as the jobless rate drops, and whether President Obama is a "liar" as some say.	7:00

5/4/14	Political strategists Terry Casey and Dale Butland	They discuss various issues, including whether Governor John Kasich has more money than he needs to win re-election, whether Attorney General Mike DeWine should continue fighting to preserve a ban on gay marriage in Ohio, whether gun opponents will gain any leverage going forward, whether "Obamacare" will be a big issue in the November election, whether Ohio's economy is improving as the jobless rate drops, and whether President Obama is a "liar" as some say.	7:00
5/4/14	Ohio Rights Group member Mary Jane Borden	She's coordinating a petition drive to legalize medical marijuana in Ohio. She says group will push hard in next week's primary election to gather petition signatures in an effort to put the issue of medical marijuana on the November ballot in Ohio.	6:00
5/11/14	Political strategists Brian Rothenberg (ProgressOhio) and Kaite Eagan (with Ohio Republican Party)	They discuss various issues, including whether the ACLU has a case in suing Ohio over the reduction of early voting near election days, whether Donald Sterling should be forced to sell the L. A. Clippers, a new poll showing President Obama's approval rating being only 41% and what it means, Ed Fitzgerald refusing to release records of his comings and goings at his office as Cuyahoga County's Executive, the Kasich Administration refusing to release billing records associated with the Ohio Department of Job and Family Services, and whether Ohio should postpone executions and review its policies in the wake of problems here and elsewhere.	5:00
5/18/14	Americans for Prosperity Ohio Director Eli Miller	He talks about his group's efforts to defeat the Columbus Zoo levy which would have provided funding to create a satellite zoo in downtown Columbus. Miller says the zoo is a great asset for Columbus but that a permanent tax levy on Franklin County residents was not good public policy. He says criticism from Mayor Coleman and others claiming Americans for Prosperity was an outside group was unfounded—that it was a local effort put together simply to oppose a permanent tax increase.	9:00

5/18/14	Columbus Dispatch reporter Jim Siegel	He discusses various political issues, including the mood of Democrats and Republicans about the 2014 statewide races, the money advantage that John Kasich has over Ed Fitzgerald in the governor's race, and about the Democrats' likely strategy to attack Kasich on his previous support of Senate Bill 5, which would have limited collective bargaining in Ohio until it was overturned by Ohio voters.	6:00
5/18/14	Political strategists Dale Butland and Bob Clegg	They talk about various issues, including the failure of the Columbus Zoo levy, whether the Republicans are on offense or defense in the early-going of the Governor's race, whether Ohioans would approve medical marijuana if it is up for a statewide vote in November, whether the Tea Party is in decline, and whether a local Democratic Central Committee race will end up in court.	7:00
5/25/14	Democratic Gubernatorial candidate Ed Fitzgerald	He acknowledged that a new Quinnipiac University poll shows him trailing Republican John Kasich by 15 points, but he says Quinnipiac has been wrong by significant margins in the past and another survey from Public Policy Polling shows him down just 4%, which he says has a more accurate record. He also says despite an improving unemployment rate in Ohio that the state's economy is only recovering for the wealthy and that they are helped by Kasich's policies. He also says he will have the financial resources needed to run a successful campaign against Kasich.	9:00
5/25/14	Common Cause Ohio State Chairman Sam Gresham	He talks about an effort to put a Voting Rights Act Amendment on the November ballot and whether it would result in more blacks voting. He also talked about whether independent voters will see an improving economy in Ohio and side with Republican John Kasich over Democrat Ed Fitzgerald. Gresham says there are other factors that may be important, including unions putting together a strong effort to back Fitzgerald and concern about whether Kasich will run for president after winning re-election in Ohio.	7:00

5/25/14	Political strategists Dale Butland and Terry Casey	They talk about different political issues, including whether Ed Fitzgerald has a chance to beat John Kasich for governor, whether independents will side with Kasich, whether Ohio's economy is improving, whether President Obama's low approval rating will impact congressional races, whether climate change is a threat to national security, whether Hillary Clinton would be tough to beat in Ohio in a presidential race, and whether Rob Portman is positioning himself for a run for president.	6:00
5/25/14	Dr. Bob O'Connor with American College of Emergency Physicians. He's also with the University of Virginia School of Medicine	He says a survey of doctors shows that the Affordable Care Act is resulting in more people coming to the emergency rooms for medical care. He says many of them are Medicare recipients but he says most of those who come in do need emergency care—he says traditional beliefs that people come in who could have gone to a family physician is largely unfounded. Therefore, he says there needs to be an increase in staffing of emergency rooms going forward with the expansion of healthcare through the ACA.	10:00
6/1/14	Food and Drug Administration's Center for Tobacco Products Director Mitch Zeller	He says there is a need to regulate E-cigarettes but also says it appears that people who smoke E-cigs instead of regular cigarettes are lowering their risk for smoking-related illnesses. He says E-cigarettes are "The wild, wild West" without regulation, with companies able to what they want with them, including altering tastes to appeal to kids.	13:00

6/1/14	Ohio Environmental Council Deputy Director Jack Shaner	He talks about a bill to freeze green energy expansion in Ohio. Utility companies are required to increasingly utilize wind, solar, even nuclear in place of coal to improve the environment, but Governor Kasich is poised to sign a bill that would make Ohio the first to halt the mandated growth of renewable energy. Shaner says Kasich has previously supported renewable and alternative energy and if he signs the bill he's going back on his word. Shaner says solar and wind energy companies have been moving into and expanding in Ohio in recent years and this bill will go a long way toward quashing their efforts.	6:00
6/1/14	WBNS-TV reporter Paul Aker	He talks about his investigation of discrepancies in time sheets and parking records for workers at the Franklin County Board of Elections.	5:00
6/1/14	Columbus Dispatch reporter Joe Vardon	He discusses a public records case that's before Ohio Supreme Court that involves whether the Ohio Dept. of Public Safety should release to the media/public Governor Kasich's schedules—the department doesn't, citing security concerns. The case also could involve requests for Cuyahoga County Executive Ed Fitzgerald's records, which have been refused for the same reasons.	4:00
6/1/14	Political strategists Terry Casey and Dale Butland	They discuss various issues, including whether green energy mandates are dead in Ohio, whether the Franklin County Board of Elections has a big problem with its apparent time sheet discrepancies, whether the Obama Administration has done enough to address problems with the Veterans Administration, whether the Kasich Administration has been dealing with the heroin addiction problem in Ohio adequately, whether Ed Fitzgerald should release records on his comings and goings in office, and whether red light cameras are about safety or revenue.	5:00

6/15/14	Political strategists Dale Butland and Bob Clegg	They debate several political issues, including whether organized labor will help Ed Fitzgerald win the governorship, whether right-to-work will be passed by the state legislature, who is to blame for the long waiting lists for veterans at V. A. hospitals, whether the swap of Gitmo prisoners for Bowe Bergdahl was good or bad, and whether local governments are jacking up taxes because of Governor Kasich's tax policies.	5:00
6/22/14	Columbus Dispatch reporter Joe Vardon	He talks about various political issues, including a story he did for the paper that shows early voting has not resulted in an overall increase in the number of Ohioans voting. He also says Lieutenant Governor Mary Taylor is likely to face heavy criticism over the recent resignation of her chief of staff and another aide who were apparently padding their hours.	5:00
6/22/14	Political strategists Brian Rothenberg and Terry Casey	They discuss various Ohio political issues, including a court decision ordering Ohio to restore early voting on the weekend before an election, how big a deal the issue is of whether Mary Taylor knows what's going on in her office, also whether Ed Fitzgerald's public records of his comings and goings in office will be revealed, whether Bill Clinton can help Fitzgerald in the governor's race, whether JobsOhio's controversies are over now that the Ohio Supreme Court has cleared it from a lawsuit, what kind of presidential campaign Hillary Clinton might run, and what it means that Rep. Eric Cantor lost his congressional primary race in Virginia to a Tea Party candidate.	5:00

6/29/14	Ohio Republican Party Chairman Matt Borges	He says recent polling numbers showing President Obama's growing unpopularity and Governor John Kasich with a widening lead over Democratic challenger Ed Fitzgerald will not lead to over-confidence in the November election. He says Ohio's are getting the message that things are improving under Kasich and that Fitzgerald is not a fiscally responsible leader in Cuyahoga County, nor would he be as governor. He also says Lieutenant Governor Mary Taylor did the right thing by turning an investigation into padded hours by her chief of staff and another aide (both of whom stepped down) over the Ohio Inspector General.	8:00
6/29/14	Political strategists Brian Rothenberg and Bob Clegg	They briefly discuss several issues, including whether the mid-term budget bill is good or bad for Ohio, whether the public cares about news that the state agency charged with regulating fracking (ODNR) was involved in a plan later scrapped to "sell" Ohioans on fracking in state parks, whether the economy has rebounded from the recession, whether President Obama's unfavorable ratings will harm Democrats in November, whether problems Lieutenant Governor Mary Taylor and Ohio Treasurer Josh Mandel (donor-related) will hurt Republicans, whether troops will eventually be sent back into Iraq, whether the U. S. House will become more conservative in President Obama's final two years in office, and whether the Washington Redskins will eventually change their name.	6:00

4/20/14	Lieutenant Governor Mary Taylor	She says the Kasich Administration has improved Ohio's economy with 170,000 new jobs—9th best in the nation. She says JobsOhio is really just getting going and the administration is focused on business expansion in Ohio. She says if Democrats focus on the so-called "War on Women" won't work in Ohio because the governor has expanded Medicaid, helping low-income women and is providing state funding to rape crisis centers.	6:00
4/20/14	Democratic gubernatorial candidate Ed Fitzgerald and running mate Debora Neuhardt	They say they are not concerned about campaign funding—they say they'll have enough to get their message out. He says Governor Kasich is focused on providing tax cuts for the wealthy at the expense of the poor and reducing funding for public education. Neuhardt says the "war on women" isn't an abortion issue—while the right to choose is important she says women also make 23 cents on the dollar less than men.	6:00

4/27/14	Help on the Way author Chris Orestis	He talks about states and nursing homes getting more aggressive at collecting debts of nursing home residents from their children. He talked about the importance of having a plan well before a loved one expects to enter a nursing home.	18:00

5/25/14	Dr. Bob O'Connor with American College of Emergency Physicians. He's also with the University of Virginia School of Medicine	He says a survey of doctors shows that the Affordable Care Act is resulting in more people coming to the emergency rooms for medical care. He says many of them are Medicare recipients but he says most of those who come in do need emergency care—he says traditional beliefs that people come in who could have gone to a family physician is largely unfounded. Therefore, he says there needs to be an increase in staffing of emergency rooms going forward with the expansion of healthcare through the ACA.	10:00
6/1/14	Food and Drug Administration's Center for Tobacco Products Director Mitch Zeller	He says there is a need to regulate E-cigarettes but also says it appears that people who smoke E-cigs instead of regular cigarettes are lowering their risk for smoking-related illnesses. Ohio agencies are receiving a private foundation grant of $300,000 to be used in Ohio to implement the SBIRT approach to drug screening in schools and other places where teens and young adults are reachable. SBIRT is "screening, brief intervention, and referral to treatment." She says it is a less invasive approach of questioning teens and young adults to determine whether they are at risk for addiction to drugs (alcohol, heroin, illicit use of prescription drugs, etc). She says the plan is to get state legislators familiar with the program and eventually get state funding to utilize it in schools.	11:00
